Accommodation and Layout

— SEAL accommodates up to nine guests in four double cabins, with space for four crew.

— Her interior was transformed during the 2018–20 refit, and combines a stone grey colour scheme with real stone counter tops, high-quality limed oak parquet flooring and new matching fabrics.

— The master cabin is on the main deck, while the lower deck offers a VIP and two further double cabins, one with a Pullman berth.

— Guests can enjoy the main deck saloon and dining area, as well as an upper deck sky lounge with bar that leads to a large exterior terrace aft.

— For practicality, the open-plan galley has access to the dining area, crew area and side deck, the laundry is in the crew mess, and heated bathroom floors and Kabola heating add year-round comfort.

Features

— Major refit: The 2018–20 refit included rebuilt engines and generators, new TRAC stabilisers, an exterior repaint, an interior transformation, electrics, Böning control and CCTV.

— Long-range design: Her tri-deck steel and aluminium construction, bulbous bow and 35,000 l fuel capacity suit extended periods aboard

— Stabilisation: TRAC fin stabilisers work both underway and at rest, complemented by fixed stabiliser rails on the hull.

— Handling: Hydraulic bow and stern thrusters and electronic Rexroth engine controls are complemented by a central keel that protects the running gear.

— Ship systems: Böning touchscreen control panels (2019) monitor onboard systems, and the Simrad navigation suite includes a 72 nm radar.

— Huge flybridge: It features a large hard top, upper helm station and relaxing areas, plus a bar with two BBQ grills, a wok station, two fridges, an ice maker and four stools.

— Garage, tender and toys: Tenders float in and out of the stern garage on rollers, and the inventory includes a Williams 435 jet RIB, a jet ski and two custom-painted Seabobs.

— Waterslide: It runs from the bridge deck, which adds real fun to time at anchor.

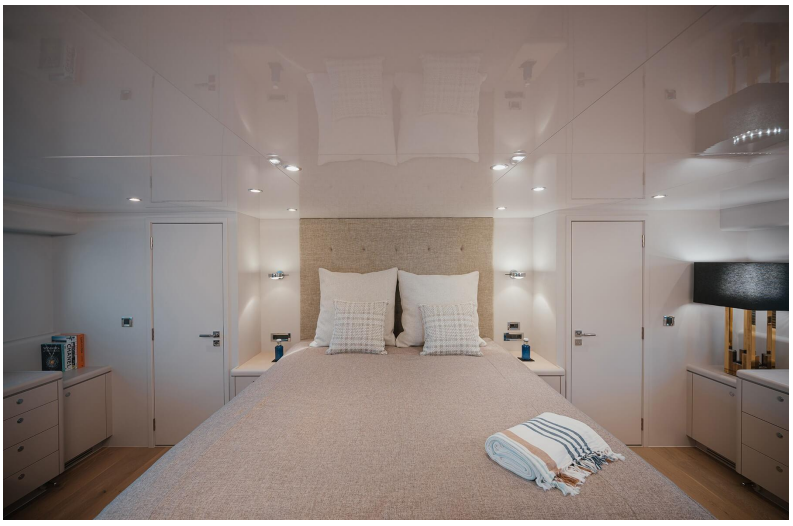

— Technical practicality: A huge bow locker with workbench leads down into the bilge, and there is excellent bilge access throughout the yacht.el — Charter-ready: She is commercially registered and ready to charter if required.
